October is bullying awareness month. At Corsica-Stickney Elementary we have been talking about kindness, compassion, and caring. We have also been talking about the differences between rude and mean behavior, conflict, and bullying behavior. Wednesday October 25th was Unity Day. Our students wore orange and stood together against bullying, united for kindness, acceptance, and inclusion.

DIG PINK NIGHT HELD!

On Monday October 23rd a Dig Pink night was held at the volleyball game vs. Marty. The night consisted of a free-will donation bake sale, as well as recognition of cancer warriors. Each varsity volleyball member played in honor of a cancer fighter. Mini volleyballs were thrown out to spectators, DIG Pink t-shirts were also sold before the event. The night was organized by Jenna Bamberg, Carly Lagge, and Jordyn Gerlach as part of a FCCLA community service project. A total of $740 was raised from t-shirt sales, and the bake sale. Proceeds were donated to the Douglas County Pink Ladies.

Third graders used The Scientific Method while making paper airplanes. They looked at models, choose their favorite designs, and then followed printed directions to make each plane type. Once they had several planes made, they headed for the gym to try them out. They discussed which ones flew the farthest and why and what they could change to improve the designs.

2nd & 3rd graders celebrated Johnny Appleseed's birthday by making applesauce from scratch. They cored and seeded apples and cooked them in a crockpot to enjoy later in the day.

TWO WAYS OUT

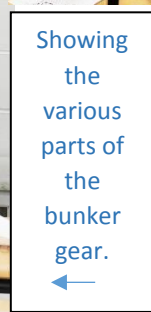

Stickney Volunteer Fire Dept. members came to school to instruct the students to "always have two ways out" meaning if the doorway is blocked by fire, use a window. Cherie Sauvage, Matt Donker, Ben Donker, Roger VanDenOever, and Sammie Prien went to each classroom to show the students up close what fireman bunker gear looked like and that they shouldn't be scared of them and hide, but instead to do anything possible to get their attention if they were in an actual fire. They talked about smoke detectors and having family fire drills at home so everyone knows where the family meeting place is located. They demonstrated how to feel for a hot door with the back of your hand, how to wet your shirt and cover your mouth so you don't breathe in the smoke, and how to stay low-n-go if the room is full of smoke. The firemen passed out goodie bags to each student with activities to do at home with parents as well.

C/S Elementary would like to thank the Stickney Fire Department for coming and sharing fire safety with us.

Charlie Van Genderen's drawing was chosen as the cover of the 2017 October South Dakota Musician Magazine. South Dakota Music Education Association held a cover drawing contest in the spring of 2017. Corsica-Stickney had 50 K-12 grade students enter a drawing in the contest.

The Kindergarten and 4th grade Reading Buddies celebrated Jumpstart Reading on October 18. Jumpstart Reading encourages children all over the country to stop and read. This year the story was Quackers by Liz Wong. Quackers the cat thinks he is a duck. After meeting cats he realizes that he likes being a cat but also likes going back to his first friends, the ducks. After reading the story the 4th graders helped their Kindergarten buddy write something they liked to do with their friends.

Stepping Back in Time

Greg, Sherry and Sam Schumacher took the C/S Elementary classes back in time to the 1830's as they presented a "Fur Trade Rendezvous" in their backyard. Classes took turns viewing multiple displays of items from the fur trade era. They demonstrated throwing knives and tomahawks, how traps work, fire starting with a flint and steel, and how a muzzleloader gun works. They showed a real beaver pelt and explained how the mountain man would trade his trapped furs for supplies such as Hudson Bay point blankets. The students got to try some jerky as well. After the history lesson, the kids got to "touch and feel" various items from the displays. Fun was had checking out all the stuff, trying on fur hats and even trying to play a bugle!

Mrs. Muckey's 4th graders got to make beaded keychains or bracelets.

Lexi & Easton Gerlach enjoyed showing classmates their rendezvous clothing.
