Title I Tidbits

*Happy
New Year*

The new year has us setting goals and thinking about what we will change to improve in the upcoming year. I encourage you to make this year a year of literacy! You are your child's first and most important teacher. Give them the gift of a lifetime.....teach them to read! Below you will find a checklist of literacy ideas for toddlers and preschoolers.

Toddlers

- I read with my child every day, even if it is just a few minutes.
- I encourage my child to bring his favorite books to me so that we can read together.
- I point to pictures and name them out loud, and encourage my child to point to pictures while we read.
- I watch to see if my child sometimes makes eye contact with me when I read aloud. That tells me he/she is paying attention to me and the story.
- I talk with my child throughout the day about things we are doing and things that are happening around us.
- I try to be patient when my child wants to read the same book over and over again.
- I encourage my child to "play" with books-pick them up, flip them from front to back, and turn the pages.
- Sometimes I listen when my child "pretends" to read a book-he/she holds the book, goes from page to page, and says words, even though they're not the words on the page.
- I give my child paper and crayons so he/she can scribble, make pictures, and pretend to write

Preschoolers

- I help my child hear and say the first sound in words (like "b" in boat).and notice when different words start with the same sound (like "boat" and "book")
- I help my child hear words that rhyme (like moose, goose, and caboose)
- I introduce new words to my child, like "bow" and "stern" which mean the front of a boat and the back of a boat.
- I talk with my child about the letters of the alphabet and notice them in books, like "c" for canoe.
- I point out signs and labels that have letters, like signs and foods in the grocery store.
- I encourage my child to find the joy and fun in reading. Usually, I let my child choose the books we read.
- I let my child pretend to read parts of the book when we read together.
- I talk with my child about stories and make connections to things that happen in our own lives.
- I ask "what," "where," and "how" questions when I read with my child to help him/ her follow along and understand the stories.
- I help my child write notes or make books (like an alphabet book), even if his writing only looks like scribbles or marks.
- I have my child use a scissors and practice cutting on a line and around shapes.

Set aside a time every day to read or have your child read. Unplug, disconnect from technology and get lost inside the covers of a book! Make 2022 a year of Literacy! Happy New Year!

American Education Week was celebrated by NHS members by bringing treats to the staff and FCCLA made lunch on Friday and put up a hallway display. National Honor Society members made tie blankets. Some of the juniors and seniors who made blankets are pictured below left. The blankets were donated to local charities for children and the elderly.

"The FCCLA and NHS chapters met on Monday, December 6th for the annual Christmas Party. There were tasty treats, fun games, and a gift exchange. Lots of laughs and many memories made!"

Remembering our classmate, Brock Bordewyk on what would have been his 14th birthday.
